DECLARATION OF RICHARD E. ELDER

I, Richard E. Elder, declare:

1. I am an attorney licensed to practice in the State of California. I am a Senior Attorney with Wulfsberg Reese Colvig & Firstman Professional Corporation, counsel of record for defendant Black & Veatch Corporation. I have personal knowledge of the facts set forth in this Declaration and could and would competently testify thereto under oath if called as a witness.
2. A true and correct copy of the Court's April 9 Order to Show Cause Why Complaint Should Not Be Dismissed for Lack of Subject Matter Jurisdiction is attached to this Declaration as Exhibit A.
3. A true and correct copy of Ted Parker's April 1, 2008 letter to James Wulfsberg is attached as Exhibit B.
4. I have conferred with counsel for the other three defendants who have appeared in this matter, Sempra Energy, Sempra LNG and Kleinfelder Group. All three parties agree with Black & Veatch that an extension is advisable.
5. I also met and conferred with plaintiffs' counsel regarding the possibility of a stipulated extension over the telephone on April 10 and in writing on April 10 and April 11. A true and correct copy of my April 10 e-mail to plaintiffs' counsel, my April 11 follow-up and plaintiffs' counsel's response is attached as Exhibit C. Plaintiffs' counsel did not express any definite opposition to an extension but stated that he was "not prepared to take a position" on the issue. Plaintiffs' counsel also stated that there is "not yet a great urgency" to Black & Veatch's request for an extension.
6. In an April 15, 2008 e-mail, I informed plaintiffs' counsel of Black & Veatch's intention to file the instant application and attached a copy of Black & Veatch's application. A true and correct copy of that e-mail is attached as Exhibit D.

CASE NO. 08cv0478 JM(BLM)

ORDER TO SHOW CAUSE WHY
COMPLAINT SHOULD NOT BE DISMISSED FOR LACK OF
SUBJECT MATTER JURISDICTION

16
17 On its own motion, the court issues this order to Plaintiffs to show cause why the 18 action should not be dismissed for lack of subject matter jurisdiction. Federal courts
19 are courts of limited jurisdiction. "Without jurisdiction the court cannot proceed at all
20 in any cause. Jurisdiction is power to declare the law, and when it ceases to exist, the 21 only function remaining to the court is that of announcing the fact and dismissing the 22 cause." Steel Co. v. Citizens for a Better Environment, 523 U.S. 83, 94 (1998) (quoting
23 Ex parte McCardle, 74 U.S. (7 Wall.) 506, 514, 19 L.Ed. 264 (1868)). Accordingly, 24 federal courts are under a continuing duty to confirm their jurisdictional power and are
25 even "obliged to inquire sua sponte whenever a doubt arises as to [its] existence. . . ."
26 Mt. Healthy City Sch. Dist. Bd. of Educ. v. Doyle, 429 U.S. 274, 278 (1977) (citations 27 omitted).

28 Plaintiffs commenced this action alleging diversity jurisdiction pursuant to 28
U.S.C. §1332(a)(2) (diversity jurisdiction exists between "citizens of a State and

1 citizens or subjects of a foreign state). The court is concerned that it lacks subject
2 matter jurisdiction because, as alleged, this is an action between citizens of a foreign
3 state and citizens of other foreign states and United States citizens. See Craig v.
4 Atlantic Richfield Co., 19 F.3d 472, 476 (9th Cir. 1994) (court lacks diversity
5 jurisdiction between foreign plaintiff and foreign and domestic defendants).

6 The court requests that Plaintiffs, as the parties who have the burden to establish
7 diversity jurisdiction, see McCauley v. Ford Motor Co., 264 F.3d 952, 957 (9th Cir.
8 2001), submit responsive briefing to this Order to Show Cause. Plaintiffs shall file and
9 serve the supplemental briefing by April 23, 2008. Defendants may file and serve a
10 response by May 2, 2008. At that time, unless otherwise contacted by chamber's staff,
11 the matter will be taken under submission pursuant to Local Rule 7.1(d)(1).

12 IT IS SO ORDERED.

Re: SaiGut S.A. de C.V., et al. v. Sempra Energy, et al.

Dear Mr. Wulfsberg:

Your March 28 letter arrived by U.S. mail (your email of that date attached none). You assert that the Complaint lacks diversity of citizenship since foreign corporations are both plaintiffs and defendants. You ask how plaintiffs intend to establish federal jurisdiction.

An exception to the alienage rule you cite is that, when an alien corporation is sued as the alter ego of a domestic corporation, its citizenship, for diversity purposes, is determined through the combined business of the entities. See, e.g., Danjaq, S.A. v. Pathe Communications Corp (9th Cir. 1992) 979 F.2d 772, 775. In Danjaq, the Court of Appeals stated that the "exception to this rule [separate domicile of subsidiary corporation] is where the subsidiary is the alter ego of the parent corporation. Under these circumstances, courts view the formal separateness between the two corporations as merely a legal fiction."

As you say, the Complaint indeed names alien corporations as defendants. But it also alleges their alter ego relationships with domestic corporate defendants, such as the relationship of BVT with Black & Veatch, that of ECA with Sempra, etc.

I hope this answers your question. Please feel free to make any other comment.

Very truly yours,

KIRKPATRICK & LOCKHART PRESTON GATES ELLIS LLP

Subject: SaiGut S.A. de C.V., et al v. Sempra Energy, et al. - motion for extension

Ted:

Per your request, I write to follow up on our telephone conversation this morning in which I proposed a joint motion requesting that all defendants' time to respond to the Complaint be extended 21 calendar days. This will permit time for the Court to consider and rule on the pending jurisdictional Order to Show Cause ("OSC") before the defendants must submit responsive pleadings to Plaintiffs' complaint, which for Black & Veatch will be comprised of motion practice challenging certain non-jurisdictional aspects of the Complaint. Such motion practice would be rendered moot if the Court finds that it lacks subject matter jurisdiction over the case. We agree it is conceivable that the time schedule set by the OSC could reflect a considered judgment by the Court to have the jurisdictional issue fully briefed by May 2, with other responsive pleadings, including motions, continuing to be due on May 8. But the OSC itself is silent on that point. Plainly, the purpose of the Court's OSC is to allow the Court to determine its own jurisdiction over the case, before it does anything else. With that purpose in mind, it seems likely that the Court would not require the parties to take action on non-jurisdictional issues while a decision on the jurisdictional question is pending.

As I explained in our conversation, the current schedule makes Black & Veatch's and Sempra's response to the Complaint due on May 8, six days after defendants' response to plaintiffs' OSC briefing is due. To meet a May 8 filing deadline, Black & Veatch would have to begin work on motion papers well before May 2. In fact, there is a good chance that we will not have a ruling on the subject matter jurisdiction issue before May 26 when plaintiffs' response to any Rule 12 motion would be due. The proposed extension could therefore avoid the needless preparation of four briefs (motions by Black & Veatch and Sempra and oppositions to each by plaintiffs) which could easily save the parties substantial attorney fees.

Contrary your suggestion during our call, we greatly doubt that the Court would perceive our proposed request for a scheduling order as second-guessing the scheduling aspect of the Court's OSC. We feel certain that it will at least view the motion for a scheduling order as a reasonable proposal, even if the Court denies it or grants it in modified form. I would be very surprised if Judge Miller would hesitate to either deny our motion or grant a shorter (or longer) extension than the one we request if he believes that doing so would serve the ends of justice or judicial economy.

I propose that we bring the issues discussed above to the Court's attention in a joint motion, propose a potential solution in the form of a three-week extension and commit the issue to the Court's sound discretion.

Please let us know your clients' position on this issue as soon as possible.

Best Regards,

Rich

Ted:

As you know, it is important that this issue be resolved sooner rather than later for at least two reasons: First, to avoid unnecessary expenditure of our respective clients' time and money preparing Rule 12 briefing; and second to avoid any appearance that we have procrastinated in requesting an extension.

We therefore intend to move for additional time in which to respond. A copy of our papers are attached. I have spoken to the clerk who indicated that Judge Miller's preferred procedure is an ex parte application with no noticed hearing date. I am told that the Court will examine the motion and either rule on it or set an appropriate briefing and/or hearing schedule. In other words, it is my understanding that at this time there is no hearing or response date and, if the Court chooses to set either or both, my assumption is that you will learn about it at the same time we do.

If you have questions or would like to discuss, please feel free to reply or call.
